Aikido is a martial art and has certain inherent risks (bodily injury) and dangers that accompany the training in any martial art system. It is recommended that one receive a medical examination before training in Aikido class. By signing this waiver, the participant agrees to assume full responsibility for them and release Aikido of Virginia Beach; Scott Tomlin, instructors, students, and any volunteer staff from any liability for any and all injuries sustained while training in Aikido or any other activities organized by Aikido of Virginia Beach. The participant is urged not to try any techniques or exercises that they feel are too advanced for them to perform. In case of injury, I give my permission for the above student(s) to receive medical attention at my expense in any instance deemed appropriate by any personnel in this program, and that said the participant has adequate health insurance. The participant further agrees to act in a respectful and courteous manner at all times while in the Dojo and/or on the premises. Aikido of Virginia Beach reserves the right to ask any participant or guest who is not obeying the rules of etiquette and/or safety regulations to leave the premises.

I, as parent/guardian of, have read this waiver in full and understand the risks involved with training in Aikido and during activities. By signing below, I agree to all terms and conditions contained in this waiver.
